

Communiqué – First Draft Review

F. Neuhaus^{1,2} A. Vizedom³

¹National Institute for Standards and Technology ²Prometheus Computing

³Independent Consultant

April 11, 2013

What is the Communiqué?

- It is not a summary of all that happened during the OS.
- It is not a research paper.
- A message to the ontology community and related communities

What is the message?

- Main goals:
 - Raise awareness of ontology evaluation
 - as a critical part of ontology development and application
 - as a activity that has practitioners and a growing body of tools and other support
 - Step to consensus on what should be evaluated when and how
- Target audience: people who actively develop ontologies and evaluate ontologies (or should be doing so)

What is the main content?

- Executive summary [missing]
- Introduction
- Overview over lifecycle
 - activities during each phase
 - characteristics for evaluation
 - evaluation methods
- Outlook on tools and recommendations [incomplete]

- We want your suggestions!
- Email to Ontology Summit mailing list
- General comments are less helpful than specific suggestions

- April 11th: 1st draft
- April 25th: 2nd draft
- May 1st: final draft
- May 3rd: Official presentation at symposium in Gaithersburg
- June 3rd: Last opportunity for endorsement
- July 1st: submission for publication (“Applied Ontology”)

https://docs.google.com/document/d/1oyJCEtYChsDji0_4z_vgCCDQKx_W7Hqxfle17EXKCE8/edit?usp=sharing